This fall, Mark and Karen Vintners will expand into New York City with a 2,300-square-foot tasting room at the swank Tribeca Wine Gallery at 12 Vesey St., a few blocks from the Fulton Fish Market. The house wine of the gallery will be the Vintners' hugely popular Pint Sized Pomegranate, a cult favorite that has sold 2,000 cases since it was introduced in 2006. "We made wine in the past," said Karen Vintners, standing at the back of her husband's new shop, a glass-walled cave with a subdued palette of muted hues and beige velvet. "We've been a small winery for a long time. We had a big vision for this." Their vision, now in place, is to merge the experience of a high-end tasting room with the romance of a small, family-owned business — no imported vintages or cases of wine, but free samples of the most coveted grape varietals and cellar-door brews. The Vintners also plan to host live music and to serve dinner. "Our mission statement is to help people discover wine and wine country. We feel we've been successful at that," Mark Vintners said. "This feels like a big step." The Vintners are relocating from their Calistoga home and opening their new shop in February. This winter they will be expanding their existing tasting room and opening a second, smaller, one at the Ferry Building in San Francisco. "This will be my second home," Karen Vintners said. "And Mark's new home is here."
