because of bullying. It can be argued that there are "good" bullies and "bad" bullies. Bullying is about using power over someone else to get away with hurting them. Bullies can be your teachers or your best friends. Bullies are the kids who shove you in a locker and the ones who don't care if you end up in the hospital. Bullies should not be tolerated because they bring pain to the lives of others, but when they are so-called "good" or "nice" kids, then it becomes so much more difficult to stand up to them because their actions are not as obvious. Bullying can take the form of a verbal comment, an action, or a combination of both. Someone who is being bullied at school can be called names or threatened with bullying actions such as being run over by a car or pushed over a concrete wall. Bullying is about the power and control you have over someone else, not the direct verbal threats. Bullying can also come in the form of physical attacks, such as punching, kicking, or hitting someone with
