The trick is to find enough of those on a limited budget! So, let me share with you the newest of these new things. I know I share a lot on instagram and on the blog, but I'm happy to share in real time as well! In early September, I had the opportunity to jump on a tour with the fabulous Alex & Ani. I had the chance to take in the city of New York, London, and Paris in this fabulous trio of city trips. The tour was a little more than I anticipated and I love being taken out of the hectic city life. This morning, we woke up in a quaint little town in the south of France (called Cap Ferrat) and got to enjoy the best part of the trip. Alex & Ani, unsurprisingly, graciously served up the most wonderful breakfast spread of lot's of fruits, pastries, and their new cookie, in the little cottage of the town. The cottage was charming, the friends we met were lovely, and the view was AMAZING. I've been itching to blog more about our trip but as you can imagine, there's been a lot of emails to catch up on. But, the little cottage that we stayed at is a place that I want to share with you because of the beauty of it. The pictures don't do it justice, the way the town is surrounded by gorgeous colors and nature reminds you of a different world. We are surrounded by nature on this trip. The town is surrounded by the Mediterranean Sea with beautiful beaches and the town itself is surrounded by mountain ranges. Yet, if you look in the distance, you are surrounded by the rich green fields of the countryside and the mountains far away in the distance. We hiked and walked and hopped on the mini bikes to explore the lovely little town of Cap
